12. COMPANIES WITH THE ARDÁN INDICATOR OF A WEALTH GENERATING COMPANY

12.1. Meaning of wealth generating company (GR)

Every business organization aims to generate value. If this were not the case, they could not be considered useful organizations for society and for its stakeholders or groups that legitimately have interests in the company. The wealth generated has to satisfy these agents. The most relevant are the shareholders of the company, its human capital, suppliers and creditors and public administrations.

- The shareholders of the company, which are the people who hold their property and who receive this wealth through the results, either through dividends, either through the constitution of reserves or through the increase in the value of the company in the market .
- The employed personnel basically obtain their remuneration in the personnel expenses section.
- Suppliers and creditors obtain the benefit as a result of their commercial relationship with the company.
- Public administrations through the taxes paid by the company in the development of its business activity.

The calculation of this indicator, which has been prepared in ARDÁN, revolves around the generation of value, in particular around Value added¹, that is, on the economic result after deducting taxes and the cost of resources, both own as outsiders, necessary for the company to function. The criteria that a company must meet in order to be considered to generate high wealth are:

1. It must have a positive EVA (Economic Value Added²) during the analysis period (2016-2018). The reason is that companies should not join that obtaining a high GVA do so on the basis of large amounts of own resources, without associated a cost, at least an opportunity cost.
2. The 2016 EVA must be greater than 150,000 euros. This criterion is established to rule out companies with little generation of value.
3. The growth of the EVA should be 10% during the study period 2016-2018.

Wealth-generating companies develop a good value generation proposal, it is noteworthy that they are positioned in unique activities. In addition, they present good value management for the shareholder of the company. The good management of companies is due to an adequate performance of R+D+i activities, improvements in productivity and the consequent improvement of their products and services.
